A NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

In early 1975, the Hydrological Society Committee discussed at considerable length the Society's objectives with regard to research needs in hydrology in New Zealand. In order to provide a constructive basis for discussion, Mr J. A. Hayward was asked to prepare a statement in conjunction with his colleagues. This statement, printed in this issue as a guest editorial, was received by your Committee, and it is hoped that its publication will stimulate discussion and feedback from the whole membership.
